

The Witching Hour of New Year's Eve

You all know Darren, one way or another. And he likes you all well enough to have invited you to his big New Year's Eve party this year! That's a pretty big win for weirdos like you, because all the popular kids are gonna be there.

In addition to being invited to the party, Darren got each of you a gift for Christmas last week that somehow reflects your relationship with him.

Darren Has Shown Romantic Interest In You

Darren's gift to you was both personal and thoughtful, perhaps to a surprising degree. If you hadn't known he liked you before, you sure do now.

When you first bring up the gift, immediately Turn Them On or Shut Them Down (depending on the context), adding 2 to the roll, but Darren also gets a String on you.

Darren And You Are Childhood Friends

Darren's gave you something you used to be into and are now really embarrassed about. Thing is, you secretly still love it.

If you're totally owning that thing when you get to the party, immediately Gaze Into The Abyss about anything of your choice, no cost. However, if you're still too embarrassed to own your interests, you'll need to Keep Your Cool if he brings it up.

Darren Works With You At Your Shared Part-Time Job

Darren's got a gift card. It's a little bit impersonal, but it was also to a place he knows you were itching to spend some money at, so there was obviously at least some thought put into it.

When you show Darren what the money went toward, check to see if the two of you are alone. If you're alone, take action as if you'd just spent a String on him. If you're not alone, choose whether to try and Keep Your Cool or just Run Away, but either way he's getting a String on you.

Darren Has A Secret. You Know What It Is.

Darren didn't get you a gift, making you the exception to the rule. Maybe he didn't mean anything by it? Maybe he did? Is this because of that thing he told you in confidence?

You don't need to say what Darren's secret is right now. Take 2 Strings on Darren.
